Translate

Here is the translation of "You must never give up!" into Dothraki: Yer vos moriot vosechhi! Note that this is a constructed language with a limited vocabulary, so the translation is approximate based on the available words and grammar. But it captures the general meaning and tone of the original English phrase.

Image Description:

The image appears to be a well-known meme template featuring a cartoon-style illustration of a man in 4 different panels, each with different text above him. The man is drawn in black and white with short dark hair, a beard, and wearing a white collared shirt and black tie, giving a thumbs up gesture in each panel. Above the top left panel it says "AS", the top right says "PER", the bottom left says "MY LAST", and the bottom right says "MY EMAIL" all in black text. The background of each panel is plain white. The overall style is simple and minimalist, allowing the text and man's poses to be the main focus to convey the intended humorous message when the text is filled in. This meme template is commonly used online to compare expectations vs reality or showcase contrasting situations by editing the text above each panel of the man while his expression and pose stays the same.
